Subject: Support Fish Passage Center funding protection

I find it interesting in face of attacks on science all over the country that funding for the Fish Passage Center is now on the block.

When scientists deliver observations that are contrary to the desires of school boards, administrations or power administrations, it appears it is now fashionable to simply apply mythology, blame as left wing, or cut funding to said scientists.

Please, people, this is the future. Time to get with the times and see that the natural world is of value and deserves unbiased protection.
