To the Council:

Dear Friends;

Why after twenty-five years of proven inadequate and failure to meet the stated goal of SALMON RECOVERY by trucking fish around the dams do you insist on "spitting in to the wind"?

I have always been under the impression that the RAND "think tank" was composed of intelligent persons yet you claim they "do not know salmon" and their study suggesting the removal of dams is faulty.

When will WE take serious the cause of "children"?
Are future generations to be denied their inheritance by present greed and past ignorance?

Thank you,

Wesley Ellis
